

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and a system for improving the strength of connection 5 between a dielectric carrier substrate and a cover layer by obliquely bombarding the substrate at at least one of its surfaces with high energy heavy ion irradiation from two different angles to produce intersecting latent ion traces therein which by subsequent chemical etching are formed into intersecting recesses within which the cover layer may be anchored.